PLAYER OR TEAM PLEDGE FORM

Strikes Against Cancer was the idea of 11-year-old Geordon Cox. His Mom is fighting cancer for the forth time in 4 years. Geordon is no stranger to cancer; he lost his Grandmother Rosemary Cox and Aunt Patricia Netzer to some variation of this terrible disease. He approached his dad and asked how he could use their shared love of baseball, his passion for pitching, to Honor his Mother and raise money and awareness to fight cancer. Since his Mom loves to watch him pitch, they came up with the idea to have friends and family members pledge money for every strike he throws over each season. So, Strikes Against Cancer was born.

Pledge a player, or the whole team, for any amount per strikes as we tally strikes over our season and join Geordon's dream of defeating all forms of cancer one strike at a time. All proceeds go to cancer research on behalf of Strikes Against Cancer.
